University is a worldwide recognized institution to obtain higher education. Universities, through education and the broader influence of their work, changing the lives of the citizen. It helps students to acquire the skills and knowledge required for an employer. Thus, finding a comprehensive university is significant to pursue a better career. I admitted myself into North-South University, Dhaka last year. While choosing a university, I looked through some qualities; those are its position, international recognition, and to get a safe and secure future career.

Till now, the effects of the decision I made, seems to be entirely satisfactory as within this short time I have already started to build a decent adult network, achieving the excellency and found the supportive as well as instructive alumni. The ranking is the first thing that I had chosen to admit in NSU. Though, there is no avowed satisfactory global ranking till now for any of the university of Bangladesh. Still, for the students who do not like to go abroad for an undergraduate degree can get a view of the placings of the available university. Due to some reasons, my family preferred private university over the public university for me to attain a higher study. Thus, it became more comfortable for me to choose a university at a primary stage.

To me, it was the North-South University which should be selected among all the private universities based on the rankings. NSU was the first private university of Bangladesh. From then to the present, it improved its quality incessantly and secured a prominent position. The second reason, I choose to admit myself into NSU, because of its regional and international recognition. It is imperative to remember that, in the present competitive job market, an internationally recognized university provides a boost in pursuing the cherished career. In the advanced monetary world, it is undoubtedly essential to make sure that the employer does not feel like they are not recruiting a person who will just become a cog in a big soulless machine.

NSU is based on American universities and follows their academic characteristics such as semester structures, credit hours, letter grades, etc. It has an International Advisory Board, made up of scholars from all over the world, to advise and suggest improvements in academic matters at the university. NSU is wholly accredited by the University Grants Board which is the only regional accreditation authority of Bangladesh. The university is applying for US institutional and technical accreditation. It is also currently planning an ABET accreditation self-study report for Engineering and Computer Science programmes. Moreover, ACBSP accredits NSU's business and economics school.

In 2015, it was the first in the entire country to receive American accreditation for its programs. Therefore, to choose an institution which has national and global recognition, NSU secures its position at the top. Another substantial justification for going to take admission into NSU was its fabulous result of its graduates in securing the career. Indeed, a higher degree can always contribute to a more robust potential job. In many countries, companies tend to look for university graduates to fill positions that have greater responsibility and higher pay, such as managers and supervisors. Every year NSU arranges career fair for its students in its premises where many of renowned companies of the country come to offer jobs to the students of NSU.

Besides, past students created a significant positive impact in the job sector that leads the organizations to take on the person from NSU. North-South University provides students with opportunities to acquire practical skills that can be useful in the real world. For example, they offer courses in accounting, data processing, and foreign languages, as well as internship programs in which students can experience working in a company and learning business skills. In short, students attend here do not only because of getting a university degree rather the practical skills they acquire, which bring them better employment opportunities in the future.

The first consequence that I can found for the decision I took a couple of years ago is, I have started to build an entirely satisfactory adult network within this short time. And I hope to make it far better in the time of completing the graduation. A strong network is essential for everyone to build a strong impact in the latest world. Though it may not seem to be something fundamental but it can take oneself a step ahead of the competitors. Here in NSU, I met students and seniors from all around the country as well as the international students from different parts of the globe. I come across some high potential mentors who can boost up their students from inside. The students and the mentors I met and familiarized from here are going to help a lot in later life. The second outcome of studying at NSU is a bit hypothetical.

That, the environment of NSU has helped me to learn things that should be desired is success, growth, abundance, results and excellence. Those are facts that we set out to achieve in practice. Whether, if it is in work, our relationship, our wellbeing, our exercise routine, or our families, we are trying our utmost to reach optimal performance. We strive to be the best of ourselves and lead our real life. After years of studying, I have gained a few central, timeless tips for achieving excellence. I love to be the best I can be and to be the best I do. I can feel the satisfaction of achieving something I set out to accomplish. I have learned that as we set out to do anything, we are going to make that happen. Finally, the gracious Alumni of NSU is the most fabulous thing that I find in NSU. For the current students, the Alumni network has a real-life impact.

Coming here, I have seen Alumni of NSU donate their valuable time to provide career support to current students. Talented alumni from here like to share with current students through talks and meetings of their wealth of experience and skills. This enhances students expertise and gives them a competitive advantage in today's challenging environment. At closure, the effect of choosing NSU to enrol for the higher study that I have found in the small period that I have passed here appears to be adequate in terms of what a university should provide to students and what my institution is providing me. Hence, it can be said that my reasoning to select NSU was flawless.

I hope to be a proficient, ethical and socially responsible, aware with a commitment to social justice and sustainability globally and regionally and a well-developed analytical person through the phases of learning from here.
